

Use YouTube to Send a Video to an Instructor for an Assignment

This sheet is a guide to the information necessary in order to use YouTube to upload an unlisted video. Once an unlisted video is uploaded, you can share the private URL (address) for it with your professor. This is the easiest way to turn in videos for an online assignment.

Creating a Youtube Account

1. If you do not already have a Google/YouTube account, go to <http://www.youtube.com>
2. Click the Sign In button in the top right corner.

3. Click the Create Account button in the top corner.

4. Fill out the form on the following pages, to create your account.

A NOTE ABOUT CAMERAS :

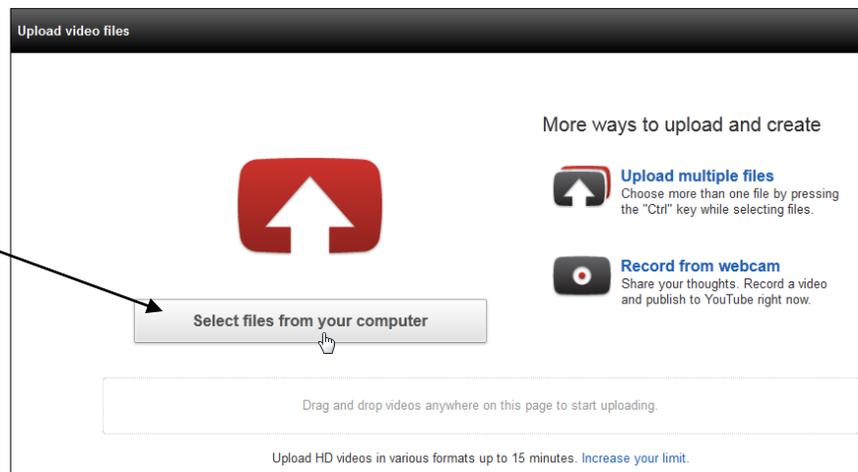

When purchasing a camera, make sure that it records at 640x480 resolution or higher, and that you can use a usb cable to move the videos onto your computer.

Uploading a Video

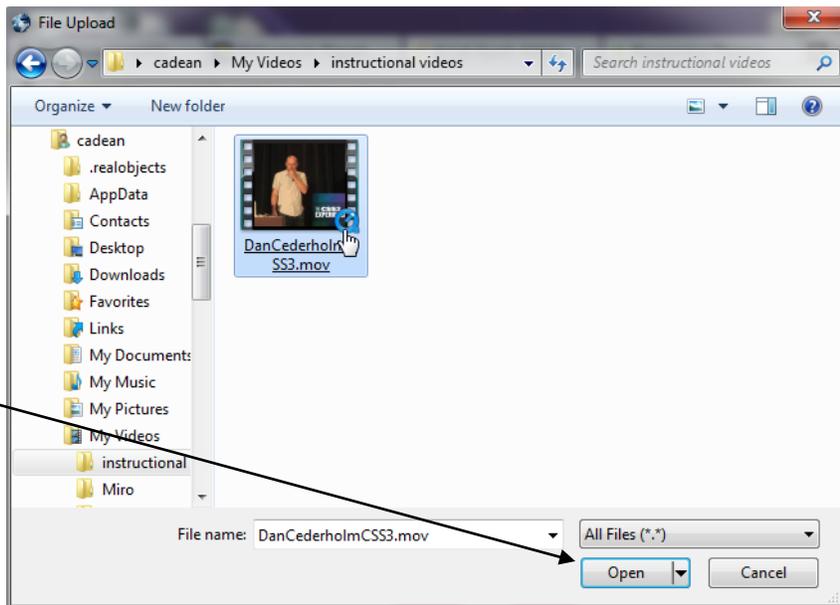

1. Log into your Youtube account and click the Upload link on the top right corner of the page.

2. You will see the Upload video files page. Click the "Select files from your computer" button in the middle of the page.

- When the File Upload window appears, find the folder you saved your video file in. Select the video you want to upload, so that it highlights, and then click the Open button.

- You will see the video progress, as it begins to upload. On the right, you will also see the Privacy Settings menu. Click this menu to view the choices.

5. Make sure that you choose Unlisted.

6. Near the bottom right corner, you should now see the Save Changes button. Click it to save the new privacy setting.

7. You should wait until the video upload progress bar get all the way to 100% before you send the link to anyone.

8. You can see the address you will need to send to your professor even before the video finished uploading onto YouTube.
9. You can also find the address on the video page later by clicking the Share button.

10. The address you send to your professor will be highlighted in the box that appears after you have clicked the share button.
11. Copy this address, and then paste it into an e-mail, Assignment upload tool, etc., according to the assignment instructions your professor has given you.
